NEW MEXICO

Denver, Colo.-Just across the Colorado-New Mexico line, but little more than 300 miles from Denver, and reached from Servilleta, a station on the Santa Fe branch, of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, is the ancient Indian village, Pueblo de Taos.

There are two great pyramid houses, one five and the other seven stories high, occupied by the entire tribe, numbering more than 400 souls. These two Pueblo structures are considered the most perfect examples of early Indian architecture. Although known to have been occupied continuously for more than 500 years, they show not the slightest sign of decay, but, on the contrary, are in a perfect state of preservation.

The Indians who have lived here for generations are simple, quiet and peaceable, and in a small way tillers of the soil. Like all aborigines, they are superstitious, believing in all kinds of signs and workings of supernatural

Although the Indians were taught the Catholic religion by the Spaniards and now use the Mexican language more freely than their own, the priests of whom there are several, are all French, and a jolly lot they

Dances constitute an important feature in all of their festival ceremonies which are really forms of worship or of prayer to the Almighty Chief.

Of festival days there are many, the most important being the Feast of San Geronimo, celebrated on the 30th of September every year.

Many Tribes Assemble,

Utes, Navahoes, Apaches and Mexcans from hundreds of miles around assemble at Taos two or three days in advance of the patron saint's fes-

In the early morning of this St. Jerome's Day a black-robed Indian makes a recitation from the top of one of the Pueblo buildings to the assembled multitude below.

In the plaza stands a pine- tree pole fifty feet in height, and from a cross piece near the top dangles a live sheep. Besides the sheep, a garland of such fruit and vegetables as the valley produces, together with a basket of bread and grain hangs from the

The bell in the little adobe chapel sounds and a few of the Indians go in to mass. After the devotional exercises are concluded, a procession is formed and marches to the race track, which is a quarter of a mile in length. The runners, of whom there are fifty, are naked except for a breech cloth and are painted no two

Fifty other runners to contest with these arrive from the pueblo across the dividing stream. Two runners from each side dart down the track No sooner do they reach the goal than two others start off, and thus for two hours the races continue in relays of twos. The victorious side is given the privilege of electing the Governor for both pueblos for the ensuing year.

In the afternoon dances by hideously painted clowns and mirthmakers are followed by attempts to climb the pole, which is at last accomplished, and amid the yells of the onlookers the sheep, fruit and grain are thrown to the ground and carried off and St. Jerome is supposed to rejoice in the happy conclusion of the festival in his honor.

The Indian maiden is not prone to rush into beauty contest. Occasionally, however, a real beauty is found among the Taos women. It is well known that all savages are averse to having their pictures taken but quite recently a strolling photographer wandering about the village unobserved and unsuspecting "snapped" the belle of the pueblo just as the was descending the perpendicular stairway leading from an upper tier of the wonderfully constructed pyramid house. The training of Delsarte could not equal the unconscious grace and ease of poise shown in the free and untrammeled figure descending the stairway. Fortunate it was for Mr. Photographer that the beauty and her friends were ignorant of his diabolical act.

Pioneers at Taos. Two and a half miles away is Fernandez de Taos, a Mexican town, quaintly built around a large plaza. Few Americans are there now, but an illustrious pioneer has called Taos nome. Colonel Kit Carson lived and is buried there. Governor Charles Bent was assassinated there February 17, 1847, during the Pueblo insurrection. Colonel Ceran St. Vrain, Judge Beaubein and many others lived Contractors and Builders, there at one time or onother. The first newspaper west of the Missouri River was published at Taos in 1837.

SPRINGER STOCKMAN NOTES. Douglas Wright made a trip to

Cimarron Tuesday. H. H. Hankins came down Wednesday from Ute Park.

The necessity of town incorporation is gaining friends every day. Land buyers have been thick in this vicinity since Thursday. Attorney Studley of Raton was in Springer Monday and Tuesday on Miss Carrie D. Hopkins, of Denver, and friends in Los Angeles, California, and vicinity, stopped over in Springer from Saturday until Monday of this week, while en route home from the coast, and visited her brother, Dr. James Hopkins.

Rev. Father Cellier, who has lately traveled over the country in Colfax in the interests of the Catholic overburdened with money. The dry and almost devoid of any vegetation, but the country generally in the finest of condition.

Gib George and two of his boys were in the city Tuesday after supplies. Gib is building a two-story ten room house on his ranch out east of here near Chico postoffice, as according to what he says, "the family is increasing rapidly" the old house is becoming too small and it is a necessary improvement. Then, on the other hand, Gib has prospered along with others who have attended strictly to business, and he is deserving of comforts such as a more commodious residence affords.

Mrs. A. J. Howell of Cline, Arizona. came in last week, and after spending a few days here with friends, among them Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunaway. went to Denver for a visit with relatives and friends, expecting to stop over for a more extended visit here on her way home. Twenty years ago Mrs. Howell was a resident of this city and she is pleased to get back to again visit her old friends, all of whom are pleased to see her again. The visit here has been made a very pleasant one by her friends.
